Ever Forward

Dear Lasell Alumni and Friends:

When Edward Lasell established Lasell College in 1851, he sought to provide a higher education for women, founded in the liberal arts and wedded to professional training. That idea is alive today in Lasell's distinctive educational philosophy—Connected Learning. Its newest expression is Lasell's Core Curriculum—introduced this Fall to first-year students after four years of planning by our faculty (see pages 4-7).

The Core seeks to accomplish several objectives: make Core courses relevant to students' lives during and after college; tie the content directly to 14 student learning outcomes we expect our graduates to achieve; and integrate the Core more effectively with courses in each major.

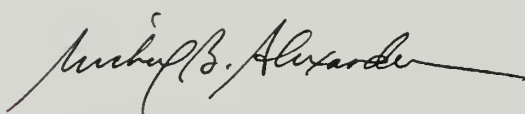

Another purpose of the Core, as with the liberal arts in general, is to prepare students for lifelong success in an ever-changing, global environment. Not only do we provide students opportunities for hands-on learning both inside and outside the classroom, but we also engage them in critical thinking about the greater world around them.

Lasell provides this interconnectedness in several ways.

- International partnerships in China, Ireland and Switzerland continue to extend the possibilities of international exchange, and study abroad in particular.
- The Core includes multidisciplinary courses that investigate major societal issues from the perspective of multiple disciplines, a junior-year course on moral reasoning in which students strive to unravel moral dilemmas, and a set of courses that introduce students to four Knowledge Perspectives, such as scientific problem solving, historical context and others.
- The College recently opened a new high-tech Math Lab with a redesigned fundamental math course required for all students. The new course and Lab feature self-paced learning, supplemented by individualized faculty support (see page 8).
- International service learning continues with two new trips to Antigua and Vietnam, in addition to repeat trips to Ecuador and Belize (see page 15). This Fall, 86 students are studying abroad, doubling last year's number.
- This semester, we sponsored town meetings, guest speakers and panel discussions that addressed anti-gay laws and persecution in Uganda, the 50th anniversary of the civil rights movement's landmark Freedom Summer initiative, the Syrian refugee crisis and the Palestinian-Israeli conflict.

Our students' interest in the world around them is ever increasing, with more than 25% of our bachelor's graduates having some type of international experience. The delivery on the promise of Connected Learning is more pervasive every year. And now, the new Core Curriculum ties it all together.

I hope you see that your generosity and commitment to Lasell contributes directly to the education of the next generation of global citizens and, therefore, to the welfare of society.

Off and Running!

Lasell College has secured two bibs for the 2015 Boston Marathon through the John Hancock Non-Profit Program. The Lasell runners are required to raise a minimum of $10,000 in pledges, proceeds of which will help provide scholarships for students from Boston Public Schools to attend Lasell. To support the Lasell team, go to <https://www.crowdrise.com/lasellcollegeboston2015>. And on Marathon Monday, April 20, 2015, join the campus viewing party along the Marathon course to cheer on the team. For more information, contact alumni@lasell.edu or 617.243.2467.

A New

Take on CORE Education

Every school has them – the required classes each student must take in order to graduate. But they typically get a bad rap – “basic, don’t go with my major, uninteresting.”

This Fall, Lasell students have a whole new view of the College’s Core Curriculum because those requisite courses have not only been turned on their heads, but inside out and back.

The idea – four years in the making – was to create a new Core set of courses that all students could experience from freshman through senior years – building on their knowledge base and providing hands-on work that better fits with Lasell’s Connected Learning philosophy.

Other higher educational institutions—under pressure to improve graduation rates and better prepare students for the working world—have increasingly undertaken the endeavor of rewriting and configuring core educational courses, but Lasell's underlying goal goes deeper.

Associate Professor of History Dennis Frey (see page 7), who led the initiative among the faculty, says it is incumbent upon colleges and universities to keep up with the times—and prepare students for the types of jobs that will be available to them in today's marketplace.

To that end, Lasell students will now take courses that emphasize multidisciplinary thinking, ethics and problem solving that dovetail with the hands-on learning experiences Lasell is known for.

The new Core Curriculum is built on a set of 14 student learning outcomes representing three goals: Core Intellectual Skills, Knowledge Perspectives and Synthesis and Application. The outcomes, which include working in collaborative settings, writing clear, well-organized and persuasive prose and applying the process of scientific inquiry to solve problems (among others), are integrated across all majors.

“The idea is to help students connect the core learning skills to one another and to their major as they progress along their four years,” says Associate Professor of Environmental Science Michael Daley, who was instrumental in the multidisciplinary course design.

Deeper Thinking and Learning

Faculty worked together to incorporate these skills, along with common expectations about workload, into their courses, while maintaining the individual creative aspect of FYS.

A new element to sophomore year is a multidisciplinary course that introduces a social or intellectual problem (such as sustainable cities) that cannot be addressed from a single knowledge perspective.

"We think this course will help students practice applying multiple lenses to a problem," he adds.

A new Ethics Experience course, usually taken in the junior year, challenges students to analyze and grapple with real, current moral dilemmas and their complex ethical solutions by connecting cultural and historical ways of understanding ethical thinking with professional standards.

At the heart of those upper-level courses is a focus on training students to evaluate and understand how individual differences and societal contexts impact human behavior, attitudes, values, interactions and emotional and intellectual growth, says Assistant Professor of Psychology Sarabeth Kohn, who worked on the creation and implementation of the new Perspectives.

For example, one assignment in a revised Psychology course has students acting as mini-behavior therapists on themselves by attempting to change a habit using principles of behaviorism. When they analyze their results they have to reflect on individual, as well as societal, factors that influenced success.

Capstone and internship experiences serve as the culmination of the Core Curriculum with the idea that through hands-on learning—a cornerstone of Lasell's educational philosophy—students will be well-prepared for what awaits them after graduation.

"I think students will gain a deeper, broader, more sophisticated appreciation for the world's problems," Goldens adds, "and stronger ability to tackle them."

Putting the 'Human' Back in Humanities

For a scholar whose prize-winning doctoral dissertation was entitled "Industrious Households: Wealth Management and 'Handwerker' Strategies in Göppingen, 1735-1865," it might surprise you that Associate Professor of History Dennis A. Frey, Jr. can swing a mean ice hockey stick. But his passions in life span just about everything in between the podium and the puck, from advocating for social justice to savoring single-malt Scotch whiskey. Frey holds a BS in Social History from Carnegie Mellon University and an MA in European History and PhD in Early Modern European History, both from Syracuse University. A former Fulbright Scholar, he has authored numerous scholarly publications and presented his research at many international conferences. Frey joined the Lasell faculty in 2004 and served two consecutive terms as chair of the Humanities Department. Raised in Ohio, he lives in Sudbury with his wife, Dr. Colleen Costello, a regulatory affairs director at an area biopharmaceutical firm, and their 13-year-old daughter, Siobhan and her twin brother, Seamus. Leaves sat down with the popular professor in his cozy Winslow Academic Center office just before the start of the academic year. In Birkenstocks, sans signature bow-tie, he looked every bit the welcoming, accessible mentor Lasell students love to learn from.

Who are your heroes? Given that my field of study (socio-cultural history) eschews heroes, I'll simply say...those common women and men who stand up to injustices, who advocate for thoughtfulness and understanding, and who keep their eyes squarely on humane treatment of each other as opposed to any grand theory, conviction or ideology.

Comment on your role as faculty lead on the task force charged with reforming Lasell's Core Curriculum (see pages 4-6). I'd been deeply involved in the work of both assessment and the creation of Lasell's institutional learning outcomes for 10 years when I was asked to take on this role. In developing the new Core, I had the great good fortune of collaborating with an amazing group of faculty colleagues, all of us dedicated to that which matters most: the growth of our students to become lifelong learners with enhanced opportunities for career success.

Historians who most inspire you? Frederick Marquardt (my doctoral advisor), Mary Lindemann and Friedrich Lenger. All are phenomenal scholars of German history who take a socio-cultural approach to their studies.

What's currently on your night table? The Ultimate Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy (collected novels) by Douglas Adams, Postwar: A History of Europe Since 1945 by Tony Judt and Geschichte Baden-Württembergs by Otto Borst.

Non-academic interests? Coaching youth ice hockey and soccer, listening to my twins play the piano (and in Siobhan's case, also the trombone), watching movies and tasting wines from the south of France and Italy.

What's best about teaching at Lasell? The innovative/entrepreneurial approach of the institution and faculty and the way it fits our particular student body. We are nimble enough to work communally to cultivate our students who, in turn, make teaching at Lasell a pleasure. Not only are they genuine and kind, most of them come to us with amazing untapped potential. Our smallish community, coupled with our Connected Learning philosophy, combine to unleash that potential. Many students soar once they realize that Connected Learning also means connecting to, and taking charge of, their own intellect. When it works, there is nothing better.

New Lab Connects Math to

The mainstream media headlines have proclaimed the achievement gap between US students and their international counterparts in mathematics as a national problem. If students underperform in math, then they will not be prepared to succeed in global economy, they say.

But while much of the attention is focused on mathematics instruction in the middle and high school years, Lasell educators believe that math education can be enhanced through intervention, engagement and independent learning in the early stages of college.

"Having students navigate through a curriculum on their own helps them become more independent with their problem-solving skills, which is something that they will need in the workplace," says Associate Professor of Mathematics Neil Hatem, who teaches the majority of courses in Lasell's new Math Lab in Wolfe Hall.

The Lab, modeled after the Apple Computer Genius Bar concept, provides Apple computers with wide-screen monitors for each student and a self-guided curriculum approach so that students can learn and achieve at their own pace. It was funded through a $160,000 grant from the George I. Alden Trust.

Hatem, who was instrumental in the creation of the Math Lab, believes that Lasell is in the vanguard of the trend to make math more interactive—especially at the entry level stage in college.

"This new Lab plays a vital role in many of our students' first math experiences in college," Hatem says. "At Lasell, where we say, 'Learning by Doing,' the Lab has students live by that motto as they literally 'do' the math each day on their own."

Students this Fall took on the newly designed Algebraic Operations class (Math 106)—now a core competency element in Lasell's new Core Curriculum (see page 4)—in 14 different sections. Each student progresses through the online course independently and, when needed, receives coaching from either Hatem or a classroom teaching assistant.

Hatem tells Leaves that the self-paced model allows students to view examples that challenge them to learn certain mathematical concepts through self discovery. The examples come in many forms, including video, so they can be customized by each student.

Vice President for Academic Affairs James Ostrow believes the new Math Lab, coupled with curriculum changes, will also illuminate connections between mathematics and social or scientific problems students pursue at Lasell.

"This individualized approach provides a mechanism through which students can bear witness to, and be more adept at, recognizing how math connects with the world," Ostrow tells Leaves.

Each class in the Lab will tackle a few projects that help them connect the math they are learning to those "real-world" problems.

In one recent project, students gathered data about foot and shoe sizes and analyzed the figures to determine a "line of best fit" between the different variables using Excel.

Hatem says the simple project gave the students valuable experience in collecting and analyzing data, as well as practice using a common analytical tool in the workplace.

In many ways, the new structure has also helped make mathematicians out of some math-hesitant students.

"This class was a major turning point for me," says Ashley Medeiros '15. "I have struggled with math since before I can even remember."

Medeiros, who described math as a childhood "nightmare," said this new, personal, at-your-own-pace approach helped her understand the material more quickly, build confidence and provided support simultaneous with the work.

"There was no feeling of embarrassment when I got something terribly wrong, because no one saw me get it wrong," says Medeiros. "And, when you do get something wrong, the My Math Lab tool has a 'Help' button that literally takes you through the process step by step."

Early feedback indicates that students enjoy the Lab experience so much that Math class has become a favorite course, rather than a requirement.

That's great news for Hatem and College officials who firmly believe that problem-solving skills learned through the Math Lab, combined with Connected Learning experiences at Lasell, will serve the students well long after graduation.

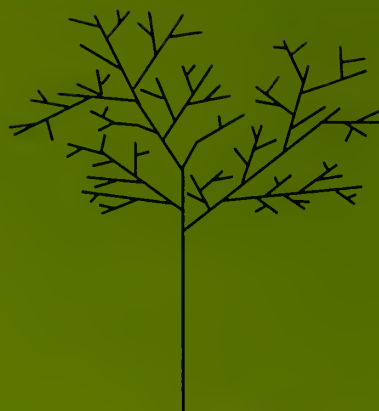

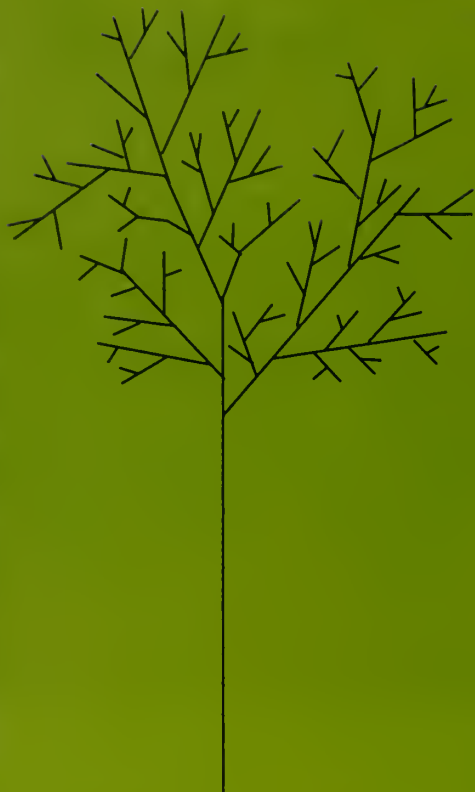

"Interactive learning significantly enhances all education," Hatem concludes, "and interactive learning better supports math education for many students."

"Having students navigate on their own helps them become more independent with problem solving."

Growing Fast

Lasell was named among the "Fastest-Growing Colleges, 2002-2012" in the Chronicle of Higher Education's Almanac of Higher Education 2014. The College was ranked 11th in growth during that 10-year span, with total enrollment climbing from 1,041 to 1,980.

E.L.D.E.R. Care

Lasell and E.L.D.E.R. (Experiential Learning for Disability and Eldercare Resources) have formed an educational partnership that joins experts in the eldercare industry with College faculty to co-develop courses for a new professional certificate program in Elder Care Management.

Runway Redux

Alum Sonjia Williams '07, who ranked fifth in the design competition on Project Runway Season 10, returned to Lifetime Television in October for a new season of Project Runway All Stars.

Easy Being Green

Lasell received the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce 2014 Green Business of the Year Award given to a community institution "that has taken a leadership role in reducing energy, employing other environmental strategies or providing noteworthy green products and services."

Freedom Summer Remembered

The College commemorated the 50th anniversary of the civil rights movement's Freedom Summer initiative with an October talk by Clifton Reed, a former Tuskegee Airman military pilot/educator and Dr. David Trimble, a Freedom Summer participant/local psychologist, about their firsthand experiences during that turbulent period in US history.

Donahue Scholar Delivers

Nadinne Cruz, a pioneering leader in community-based and experiential learning, was named this year's Distinguished Donahue Scholar by the Donahue Institute for Values in Public Life. Cruz delivered a lecture, "Education to Change the World: A Call to Engagement by a Loyal Critic of Service Learning" in October.

Venture Visit

Team members from Venture for America, an entrepreneurship and start-up matching organization, met with Lasell students in September to discuss the innovative program and how students might become involved post-graduation.

'The Best Job in the World' Nurtured at Lasell

Anthony Petrelis '05: The 2014 Milken Educator Award-winner in his element.

As a Lasell student, Anthony Petrelis '05 was determined to become a teacher. And the College's intimate, close-knit environment for learning helped get him there.

Fixed on his goal, he says the hard work of grinding through classes and preparing for state licensure were well worth the effort and the rewards abundant.

"All of the great teachers I had, from elementary school through Lasell, have left a huge impact in my life, and I want to help share and spread the positive messages that I was fortunate enough to have," says Petrelis, an award-winning fifth-grade teacher at McGlynn Elementary School in his hometown of Medford, MA, where he lives with his wife Jenna.

A community-centric educator who wakes every day "thrilled to be teaching," Petrelis wears multiple hats: football and basketball coach, summer program director, tutor, school council member and MCAS prep program director, among them.

Earlier this Fall, he learned just how effective a teacher he is when he received the national 2014 Milken Educator Award—deemed the "Oscar of Teaching" by many in education circles.

Days after the big surprise—when he was presented the award before his school's student body, faculty and administrators—Petrelis shared with Leaves his reflections on his role as an educator.

You teach fifth grade and many subjects. Do you have a favorite? I love teaching math to children because there are so many different ways of teaching it, and it is nice to see how students use different methods to derive the same answer. You have the freedom to do work visually as well as mentally. Children respond well to the open flexibility to complete a problem the best way they know how, without the pressure of having to solve a problem one way.

What is the most rewarding part of your job? To see the sense of accomplishment and pride students take when they get something correct or are able to explain something to another student in their own words and methods: that makes me feel good. I take pride in caring about my students and being the best role model for them I can. I try to attend their games and other events outside of school to show them that I care and make them understand I appreciate the hard work they put into everything they do.

Why did you pick Lasell? I visited the College, and the small school setting was something that I really enjoyed. I have always attended small schools that had "you know everyone" settings, and Lasell felt like the place for me. I also met professors in the Education program and was just sold on wanting to pursue the field.

Did you always know you wanted to be an educator? I thought I wanted to be a teacher in high school but was unsure of which grade level. When I came to Lasell and began observing daycare centers, local schools and completing my observations, elementary school just seemed to be the right place for me.

How were you inspired at Lasell? There were many professors who inspired and challenged me. My advisor, Humanities Professor Joseph Aieta, really challenged people to think. Amy Maynard and John Carroll were also great Education professors. I really learned a lot in their classes and was encouraged by their passion for teaching.

How did Lasell help prepare you? Lasell gave me opportunities and school connections, and I appreciate everything it has done for me.

What are your hopes for the future? I enjoy my life as a teacher and a coach. Down the line I may want to explore school administration, becoming a head coach of a high school football team or even a college professor teaching education classes.

Any message to current students? For students who want to pursue education, I think teaching is the best job in the world. I cannot picture doing anything else in my life but teaching and trying to have an impact on my students' lives.

Top of their Game

Young Alums Score in the Competitive World of Sports

It's exciting, it's sexy and it's competitive. The business of sports is one of the fastest growing industries in the world, with some estimating revenues in the $50-$100 billion/year range.

Lasell and its students jumped on this fast-moving train with the creation of Sport Management majors, minors and a graduate program in recent years and they are not alone in wanting a piece of the action.

With entertainment moguls like Jay-Z establishing sports agencies and the popularity of professional sports exploding, the field—including marketing, business, entertainment, coaching, communication and media—is hot. "People realize they want to be associated with winners, and that associates with sports," says Dwayne Thomas, chair of the College's Sport Management Department.

Thomas says the program, which will soon be accredited by the Commission on Sport Management Accreditation, urges students to complete multiple internships and gain hands-on experience so that after graduation they are confident and ready to compete.

Lasell students have completed internships at the Boston Bruins, New England Revolution, ESPN-Boston, Boston College Athletics and Jam'n 94.5/Kiss 108 leading to positions at a wide variety of organizations including the Boston Red Sox, New England Patriots, Anaheim Angels, NASCAR and many others.

The collection of young alums highlighted here demonstrates just how that Lasell-born field experience has paid off.

Matt Tieri '11

Title: Inside Sales Representative, Boston Red Sox, Boston, MA

How did you land your position?

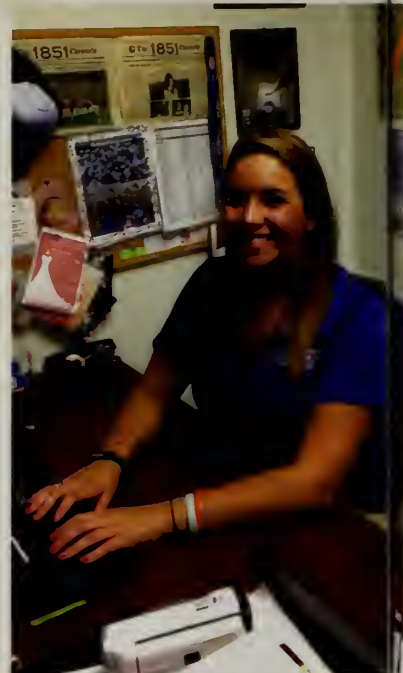

Networking. My first opportunity in sports was an internship with professional indoor lacrosse team, the Boston Blazers. The minute I started I made an effort to meet and connect with as many people as possible within our company and the industry. These connections led me to interviews with different teams until I landed a job with the Red Sox.

Best aspect of your job (so far)?

I'm excited to come to work every day. I think it's important to find a job where you enjoy what you do, because it will be easy to stay motivated to work your hardest each day. The best experience I have had here at Fenway was being part of the 2013 World Series Championship run.

Skills developed at Lasell? At Lasell I was fortunate enough to have professors and advisors with experience in the sports industry. I built my credentials through internships with various sports properties, while networking with people inside the industry. It was a major part of how I got to where I am today.

Austin Traina '09

Title: Manager, Network and Studio Operations, The Madison Square Garden Company, NYC

How did you land your position? I was working at WNET NY when a friend's father alerted me to the position at MSG and said I should "throw my hat in the ring." I had an interview, and I nailed it. And the rest, as they say, is history.

Best aspect of your job (so far)? Every night I see the results of my hard work on one of our network stations. When I see my studio and my shows on live air in various sports bars and restaurants throughout NYC, it gives me an incredible sense of pride to know everyone enjoys watching our teams, and that I had a small part in making that happen.

Skills developed at Lasell? Real-world skills are very hard to obtain unless you are in the real world. Lasell afforded us the opportunity to get that experience in a controlled environment which was tremendous. My Public Speaking class assignments gave me the confidence and the knowledge about how to speak effectively in front of people. It's a main reason why I am where I am today.

Rory Grady '09

Title: Certified Athletic Trainer, US Athletic Training Center, NYC

How did you land your position? During my interview I was able to talk about my clinical opportunities while at Lasell. I had a chance to experience every type of setting and that gave me a leg up on other applicants. I believe I got the job because of how well Lasell prepared me for interviews; having a philosophy of treatment and handling athletes was crucial. Charm doesn't hurt either.

Best aspect of your job (so far)? The ability to work with and learn different rehabilitation techniques from physical therapists.

Skills developed at Lasell? The Athletic Training program helped me develop the skills that I use on a daily basis including my evaluation knowledge and on-field management. This has helped me grow into a better practitioner.

Olivia Coiro '12

Title: Assistant Director of Athletic Communications, Lynn University, Boca Raton, FL

How did you land your position?

I applied to every job on the NCAA job market website that interested me including seven athletic communication jobs and was denied immediately from most of them. Two weeks later Lynn University called. Before I knew it, my car was packed and I was moving to South Florida.

Best aspect of your job (so far)? I have been able to cover our women's golf team the past two years when we won back-to-back Division II National Championships. To me, there is no greater joy than watching my athletes work hard to achieve their goals and to support them along the way.

Skills developed at Lasell? If it wasn't for Lasell I would not be where I am today. Director of Athletics Kristy Walter and Sports Information Director Todd Montana gave me a lot of responsibility as an undergraduate. Assistant Professor of Exercise Science Janice Savitz connected me with Lesley University, where I interned for three years. By graduation, I could input statistics for every sport, write a post-game recap and create videos.

Katie Farr '11

Title: Doctoral Candidate in Physical Therapy, Simmons College, Boston, MA (anticipated August 2015)

How did you land your position?

My passion for physical therapy grew as a student at Lasell after my internships at CATZ Physical Therapy Institute. Following graduation, I worked at CATZ for a year, continuing to expand my knowledge and prepare for the Doctor of Physical Therapy program at Simmons.

Best aspect of your job (so far)? Every day I learn something new and interesting. It is a great opportunity to be involved with the care of patients in different settings that have a wide variety of conditions including sports injuries, joint replacements and strokes. One of the best aspects of physical therapy is having the ability to impact people's lives in a positive way.

Skills developed at Lasell? As a student athlete, work ethic and time management were crucial to my success. I use skills that I developed and strengthened at Lasell every day.

Extra Credit

All Smiles: Joanna de Peña, surrounded by a group of young fans at the Boys and Girls Club in her hometown of Lawrence, MA.

Joanna de Peña '13

Sharing Success is 'Top Notch'

Joanna Desiree de Peña '13 wants to speak to one million kids by the end of 2015. And at the rate she's going, she just might. The self-described "motivational speaker, life coach and entrepreneur" put her Lasell BS in Business Management to good use by founding Top Notch Network, an organization that hosts community-based networking events and workshops to help create scholarships for urban youth "just like me," de Peña says. Top Notch is supported and staffed by millennial entrepreneurs and professionals who dedicate a percentage of the profit from membership fees to the scholarship effort. Leaves caught up with the enthusiastic young alum during a jam-packed day of local speaking gigs.

What attracted you to Lasell? Aside from location, the hands-on learning experience, small class size and opportunity for one-to-one interaction with professors.

How did your major help you pursue your profession? From ethics to research, the way I run my business is based on strategies and teamwork-building skills I learned at Lasell.

Talk about your goal of speaking to one million kids by the end of 2015. I got into motivational speaking almost by accident after addressing a group of middle-schoolers and witnessing the impact it could have. I decided to dream big and set a goal of speaking to one million kids about future opportunities and expanding their horizons. What keeps me motivated is the positive feedback I get, seeing the fire in kids' eyes for the desire to succeed.

What books are on your nightstand? Lincoln on Leadership by Donald T. Phillips, Rich Dad, Poor Dad by Robert Kyosaki, The Secret by Rhonda Byrne, The Power of Now by Eckhart Tolle.

Who are your heroes? My mother, who is always there for me. Also, Steve Kelley, my former coach at the Lawrence Boys and Girls Club, who taught me life skills through the sport of basketball that have carried me to this day.

What are your hobbies/passions? Basketball and international travel are hobbies; empowering inner-city kids through scholarship opportunities is my passion.

Why is it important to stay connected to your alma mater? Giving back to a place I was once a part of allows me to reach out to younger generations of students who may want to learn about navigating life outside of the classroom with success. If I can do it, I know they can!

Ecotourism in Belize

Lasell's international service learning trip to Belize teaches students about caring for the environment and doing their part to reverse the negative impacts of tourism. In Spring 2014, Assistant Professor of Hospitality and Event Management Melissa Van Hyfte and Assistant Professor of Communication Dana Janbek traveled with 10 undergraduates to the Central American country with that mission in mind. For a day-by-day account of their journey, check out the student blog at: <http://www.lasell.edu/academics/study-abroad/international-service-learning-programs/belize-blog-2014.html>.

Nine New Faculty on Board for 2014-15

Lasell College welcomes nine new members to its faculty for the current academic year, "educators who bring a diversity of professional and academic expertise to our community," Vice President for Academic Affairs James Ostrow tells Leaves. "Collectively, along with four new promotions," Ostrow adds, "they represent a remarkable group of colleagues and student mentors."

La Quita Frederick, assistant professor of Communication, brings to Lasell years of professional experience in marketing and promotion, mostly in the sports industry, recently at the William & Lafayette Agency in Washington, DC. Frederick is a doctoral candidate in Sport Administration and Management at the United States Sports Academy, and she holds an MA in Sport Administration and Management from the Ohio State University.

Monica Hall-Porter, assistant professor of Biology, comes to Lasell from Dean College in Franklin, MA, where she was assistant professor of Biology. She holds a PhD in Molecular and Cellular Pathobiology from Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, NC and is a former postdoctoral associate at the Molecular Cardiology Research Institute at Tufts Medical Center.

Marisa Hastie, associate professor and program director of Exercise Science, joins Lasell from Lane Community College in Eugene, OR, where she was director of the Exercise and Movement Science Program. She holds an EdD in Educational Foundations and Leadership from George Fox University in Newberg, OR and an MS in Exercise and Movement Science from the University of Oregon.

Claudia Rinaldi, associate professor and chair, Education Department, comes to Lasell from the Education Development Center in Waltham, MA, where she was project director of the Urban Special Education Leadership Collaborative. Prior to that, Rinaldi was assistant professor of Education in the Department of Teacher Education at the Lynch School of Education at Boston College. She holds a PhD in Reading and Learning Disabilities from the University of Miami.

Edward Weeks, assistant professor of Criminal Justice, is a doctoral candidate in Criminology and Justice

Studies at the University of Massachusetts Lowell with a dual concentration. He holds an MA in Criminal Justice from the University of Massachusetts Lowell, where he also has taught.

Deborah Baldizar, visiting assistant professor of Art and Graphic Design, has been an adjunct faculty member at Lasell since 2006. She also has taught at the Community College of Rhode Island and Three Rivers Community College in Norwich, CT. Baldizar, who holds an MFA in Sculpture from the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth, has been widely exhibited in New England and beyond.

Laura Commins, visiting assistant professor of History, began her undergraduate studies in 2008, after raising three children. She holds a BA in History from Lasell College, where she was a lecturer in History in 2013, and an MA in History from Brandeis University. Commins is currently pursuing a PhD in American History at the University of New Hampshire and remains involved in educational museum work.

Thomas Lightner, visiting assistant professor of Accounting and director of the Lasell Accounting Program at the Shandong Institute of Commerce and Technology (SICT) in Jinan, China, comes to campus after serving as assistant professor and advisor at the Liaoning Normal University/Missouri State University College of International Business in Dalian, China. He holds a PhD in Educational Technology, with an emphasis in Interactive Technologies, from the University of Northern Colorado and an MBA from the University of Montana. Lightner will spend eight weeks each semester at SICT in China, teaching courses and overseeing Lasell's partnership program in Accounting.

Karin Raye, visiting assistant professor of Legal Studies, has been an adjunct faculty member at Lasell since 2009. She previously served as a Women's Law and Public Policy fellow at Georgetown University and as a clinical teaching fellow at Northeastern University School of Law's Domestic Violence Clinic. Raye holds a JD from Northeastern University School of Law and co-chairs the Campus Violence Working Group, a subcommittee of the Governor's Commission on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault.

Lynn Blake has been promoted to professor of Fashion. In her many years at Lasell, most recently as Fashion Department chair, she has been an engaged faculty member active on numerous committees. She holds an AAS from the Fashion Institute of Technology, a BFA from Massachusetts College of Art and an MFA from Goddard College.

Hortense Gerardo has been promoted to associate professor of Anthropology and Performing Arts. A celebrated creative artist, Gerardo is resourceful at engaging students through eclectic formats including video, performance art, documentary film and drumming. Gerardo holds BA, MA and PhD degrees from Boston University.

Amy Maynard has been promoted to associate professor of Education. As a "teacher of teachers" and an expert in literacy education, Maynard challenges students to work outside of their comfort zone. She holds a BA from the University of Vermont and an MEd from the University of Southern Maine.

Anh Le Tran has been promoted to associate professor of Economics and Management. Widely published in both the scholarly and popular press, Tran is considered an expert in the field of international economic development, especially in relation to Vietnam. He holds BA and MA degrees from the University of Massachusetts Boston and a PhD from Northeastern University.

2014 Commencement

Lasell's 160th annual Commencement on May 18, 2014—the grand Processional, moving student addresses, spirited keynote speech from fashion industry icon Joseph Abboud, conferring of a record number of undergraduate and graduate degrees and buoyant Recessional—proved a memorable morning for all who packed the sprawling Taylor Field tent. Here, some faces in the joyous crowd. Alma Mater, Fidelitas!

Trustee Irv Gruverman: Man of Many (Lasell) Hats

It's All Here!: Irv Gruverman in his groove, Lasell Village view included.

It's a long way from teeming Bedford-Stuyvesant to leafy Lasell Village. For Irwin J. "Irv" Gruverman, however, the trajectory from city life in Brooklyn to Village life in Auburndale, via Pittsburgh and 40 years in Needham, makes perfect sense.

A retired engineer, Gruverman is a familiar presence on campus, bringing his respected savvy to dining rooms, classrooms and board rooms—as a longtime Lasell Village resident, enthusiastic student and member of the College's Board of Trustees.

"Marjorie and I loved the idea of moving to a college environment, especially the requirement to attend classes," the Cooper Union and MIT graduate tells Leaves. "Living amongst like-minded people, with the prospect of excellent meals, rich conversation and a full schedule of activities, was very appealing."

And so, in 2003, the Gruvermans, parents of two and grandparents of one, relocated to Seminary Avenue to begin a life chapter that continues to thrive.

After a career in physical science, first as an engineer and chemist, later as a manager, then as a founder of several medically oriented companies, this former venture capitalist helped to found and/or fund some 50 biotech and medically oriented companies. When he's not busy with his many Lasell commitments, Gruverman still does some consulting work and actively manages a family investment fund.

"Our expectations at the Village have been met," Gruverman says, "and we've discovered new activities to pursue. I've joined our Voices of Experience chorus and theatrical groups; Marge has expanded her reading and artistic endeavors."

Interacting with students in the dining room, learning from gifted faculty leading classes at the College and Village, having access to a diverse roster of timely events and being a voice on the Board of Trustees all spoke to the couple's positive impression of a "rapidly changing environment and quality of the College and its faculty, students and administration." And, in addition, reinforced their commitment to support Lasell's educational agenda with time, energy and money.

As a trustee, Gruverman's focus is on growing the College's science agenda, improving graduate job placement activities and supporting service learning travel. He helped organize a popular micro-lending program to benefit the lives of villagers in Coatepec, Veracruz, Mexico as part of the College's Shoulder to Shoulder initiative. "The loans get repaid, the Mexican villagers enjoy significant improvements and the Lasell students have a powerful service learning experience," Gruverman tells Leaves. All in all, he finds being involved in the effort "inspiring and valuable."

Most recently, Gruverman generously established and provided initial funding for five stipends of $3,000 each to enable deserving students to pursue otherwise unpaid internships as part of their Connected Learning experience.

Like many of their neighbors, as they age, the Gruvermans find their evolving needs—for shelter, companionship, stimulation and general joie de vivre—comfortably satisfied at Lasell Village.

"We don't have to travel anymore," the Village enthusiast exclaims. "It's all here!"

A Campus Leader with His Eye on the Ball

Maybe you've spotted him walking backwards across the Arnow Courtyard, a Blue Key Society ambassador leading a prospective student and family on a campus tour.

Or, you might have seen him in action at a Student Government Association meeting (bow-tie in place) in his role as vice president of financial affairs. Or, perhaps, on the sidelines at a Mt. Ida College or Bentley University varsity game, performing clinical rotation duties which he does for 18 hours a week.

Whether extolling the virtues of the Lasell experience to curious tourists or "taping 40 ankles," as he puts it, to prep a team of athletes to take the field, Anthony Szol '16 is a Lasell presence who seems to be everywhere. And he takes his signature smile with him along the way.

The West Springfield, MA native, an Athletic Training major with a minor in Coaching, applied to Lasell in 2012, attracted to "the great Athletic Training program and beautiful campus." He knew he'd made the right choice, he tells Leaves, "once I encountered the Flash Mob at Accepted Students Day. I could see firsthand the kind of community Lasell is."

Leaves sat down with the Butterworth resident assistant during a busy afternoon of classes.

High school? Easthampton High, Easthampton, MA, where I played football and baseball.

Family? Father a supervisor for W.B. Mason, mother studying to be a medical assistant.

Favorite Lasell class? Therapeutic Exercise and Rehabilitation Techniques.

Favorite movies? Action films, especially anything with Denzel Washington or Samuel L. Jackson.

Hobbies? People-watching in Boston.

Key Lasell memory? Having a chance to be a medical volunteer at the 2013 and 2014 Boston Marathons, which allowed me to grow as an aspiring Athletic Training professional.

Marathon Man: Blue Key Society Ambassador Anthony Szol.

Preferred campus spot? The Campus Center. That's where I met Director of Student Activities and Orientation Jenny Granger, now a mentor and friend, who has helped me become the campus leader I hope I am today.

Best thing about Lasell? The extremely welcoming faculty.

Future plans? I'd like to coach strength and conditioning on the college level and, hopefully, go to graduate school to pursue a doctorate in kinesiology.

IN FASHION

Fashion Week Works

Designs by Lasell Fashion alum Julie Kontos '07 (far right) were featured in the Fashionably Late: Fabulous, Fierce and Fashion Forward show at the Liberty Hotel during Boston Fashion Week in October.

Kontos' collection of "classics with an edge" was paired with handcrafted accessories from Race & Grant. Lasell students worked behind the scenes and as models at the event.

Other College students had their own shot at the spotlight before Fashion Week at the Institute of Contemporary Art/Boston in an installation called Fashion Fusion. Lindsay Griffin '15, Lauren Meunier '15 and Sinora Noun '14 presented their "Fall Looks."

Lasell Assistant Professor of Fashion Anne Vallely was one of 200 people showcased in a Fashion Week photography exhibition, Expressions: the Faces of Boston Fashion, at the W Hotel.

Yuki @ Lasell Collection

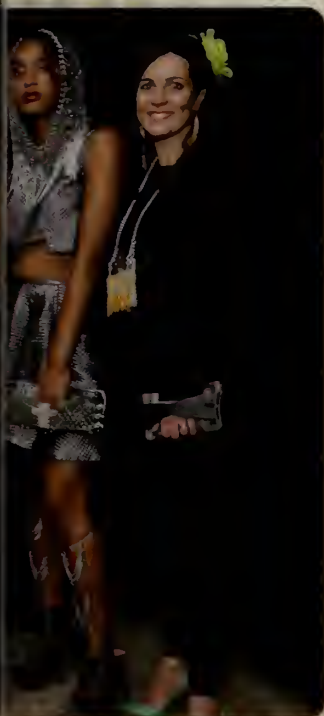

Lasell's Fashion Collection recently received 100 original designs by renowned designer Gnyuki (Yuki) Torimaru, a gift from The Museum of Fine Arts Boston, made possible by philanthropists Frederic and Jean Sharf.

"To me, Yuki's work is timeless," says Jill Carey, associate professor of Fashion and curator of Lasell's Fashion Collection, adding that "the items are in mint condition and provide a compelling body of work by this notable international fashion designer." Yuki's designs were influenced by the London "Youthquake" of the 1960s.

According to Carey, the MFA and Lasell College are now holders of the world's largest assortment of Yuki's work. The designs in the Collection will be available for study by students in Lasell draping and design classes.

Yolanda Couture Dazzles

A red cocktail dress studded with crystals once worn by actress Joan Collins and a gown with a sequin lightning bolt design worn by dancer/actress Mitzi Gaynor were among the pieces from Lasell's Fashion Collection featured in the exhibit Yolanda: Innovative Fashion Icon: 50 Years of High Heels, Headpieces and Haute Couture.

The exhibit celebrated the life and impact of Boston-area fashion legend Yolanda Cellucci and included more than 30 couture items from the Lasell Fashion Collection, given to the College by Cellucci after the closing of her fashion retail outlet in Waltham.

The exhibit was a collaboration between Cellucci, The Charles River Museum of Industry & Innovation, The Museum of Fine Arts Boston, Lasell College and Sondra Celli Designs.

Communication Professor Dana Janbek was interviewed by Fox25 News Boston in September about recent findings that terrorist cells use basic terms as code words to communicate. Janbek appeared again in October to comment on terrorist recruitment.

In August, Assistant Professor of Political Science and gaming expert Paul DeBole appeared on Fox25 Morning News to discuss plans for a Boston-area casino; was quoted in a July online edition of USA Today about struggling casinos and the Atlantic City, NJ gambling industry; and interviewed on Bloomberg TV's popular Taking Stock show with anchor Pimm Fox. DeBole also was quoted in the Boston Globe and Gambling Compliance magazine this Fall.

Lasell had mentions in the Wall Street Journal, Bloomberg Businessweek and several other business publications regarding the College's new pilot program with Comcast that provides students with video on demand through their devices.

USA WEEKEND

Joanne Montepare, director of Lasell's Fuss Center for Aging and Intergenerational Studies, was quoted in an August USA Weekend article, How To Retire Early While Everyone Else Toils at Work.

Staffer Kaitlyn Botelho, senior assistant director of Admission, was featured in an August online article on NerdScholar about what constitutes a successful college essay.

In July, Vice President for Student Affairs Diane Austin's advice on etiquette for new college students appeared on The Choice Blog.

In July, President Michael B. Alexander posted a commentary on Cognoscenti, WBUR's online opinion website, about a Gordon College decision to continue discriminatory hiring practices based on sexual orientation and gender identity. President Alexander also was quoted in the Boston Globe on the same issue.

COGNOSCENTI

In its online Podium website, the Boston Globe published a May commentary by Vice President for Academic Affairs James Ostrow, Obama's Missed Opportunity on Higher Ed, on the idea of a national college ranking system. WBUR's Cognoscenti website also published a version of the opinion piece.

Paula Panchuck, vice president for Lasell Village, was quoted in an April article in the Business section of the New York Times that highlighted retirement communities associated with colleges and universities.

Associate Professor of Fashion Jill Carey and alum April Stern Riccio MS'12, were quoted in an October Boston Globe appreciation of design luminary Oscar de la Renta.

In October, James Ostrow, vice president for Academic Affairs, appeared on WGBH's Greater Boston public affairs program to discuss the status of Lasell's international service learning trip to Uganda.

Medallion and GOLD Rising Star Honorees

The Lasell Medallion was established in 1968 to honor outstanding members of the College community. The bronze award "may be made to any member of the Lasell family who, by virtue of distinguished service to the College or to society at large, has brought added honor to the name of Lasell."

Gloria Boyd Major-Brown '44, a 2014 Medallion recipient, was a busy and engaged undergraduate at Lasell, active in student government, sports and social life on campus. She and fellow alum, the late Susan Slocum Klingbeil '45 (see page 34), are credited with helping to inspire Lasell's tradition of community service during their time on campus. After graduating with a degree in Open Studies, Major-Brown went on to attend Barnard College and enjoy a long career as a Connecticut real estate broker, retiring in 2005. A member of Lasell's Board of Overseers and the College's Heritage Society, she chaired her 65th Lasell reunion in 2008 and maintains a rich roster of nonprofit affiliations and honors in her home state.

A generous steward of her alma mater, and a member of Lasell's Board of Overseers, 2014 Medallion recipient Thelma Greenberg Florin '64 is famous for "not taking no for an answer." And that stance has fueled her lifelong success in spearheading projects that focus on education, outreach and support for victims of abuse. After receiving a degree in Child Study from Lasell, Florin went on to earn a BS from Boston University. With her husband, Richard, Florin has helped oversee the Mundi Westport Group, a leading manufacturer of personal leather goods. The Florins live in New Jersey, where their Florin Family Foundation supports community organizations involved with higher education, family services and Judaism.

The GOLD (Graduates of the Last Decade) Rising Star Award recognizes "achievement and significant contribution to the recipient's profession, community or to Lasell while balancing the demands of being a recent graduate." Nominees must support the mission and uphold the values of the College, must have received an undergraduate degree from Lasell, must be 35 years of age or younger at the time of nomination, must maintain a connection with Lasell and must have a commitment to community service and/or volunteer involvement.

Amy Pilat Souza BS '04/MSM '08, a 2014 GOLD Rising Star Award recipient, is a former vice president of Lasell's Alumni Board of Management, where she served in a variety of leadership roles. Souza earned a BS in Daycare Administration and an MSM in Management from Lasell and received the Lasell Bowl in 2007, participating in student government throughout. A resident assistant on campus and a former teacher at The Barn, Souza now owns and operates ABC Early Learning Childcare in Tewksbury, MA.

Nara Lucia D'Avila Paz '09, named "Our Own Vera Wang" by The Improper Bostonian, graduated from Lasell with a BA in Fashion Design and Production, summa cum laude. The 2014 GOLD Rising Star Award recipient also holds an Industrial Design degree from Univille University in her native Brazil and is a certified elementary school teacher. Her signature Nara Paz Design Internationale creations are carried in upscale boutiques and seen on A-listers worldwide. The young girl who once pored over Vogue magazine at street corner racks in her rural hometown has been honored by the fashion industry with New York Rising Star and Top Five Emerging Designer awards. Her fame notwithstanding, Paz has never forgotten Lasell College, the place that helped set her on her path.

Marsha Shapiro Carpenter enjoyed a trip to see family in Napa Valley, CA in May, followed by travel to NYC to hear her oldest granddaughter play violin with the Napa Valley Youth Symphony at Carnegie Hall.

Elizabeth “Betty” Hood took a “bucket list” trip to Alaska in August. After 12 years, she continues to enjoy teaching beginner-level ballroom dance. She is in contact with

Geraldine “Gerry” Weidman Wight, who recently traveled to China. In a bit of serendipity, Joan Gozzi Gridley has connected with a co-volunteer at the Boca Raton Regional Hospital in Florida who turned out to be a Lasell graduate! Joan’s family hosted a 100th-birthday party for her father in August. Lasell Overseer Laura Jensen and her husband traveled to several Baltic countries in May on a Holland American Cruise. Not only was it a wonderful adventure with interesting ports, Laura tells Leaves, it was a “reward” for her surviving cancer treatment in 2013. Making the trip extra special were visits with family in the UK and reconnecting in Denmark with former exchange students the couple had hosted at the University of North Carolina/Chapel Hill beginning in 2004.

Donna Skillings Kessler reports that the Pickard Girls met twice in June and that Judy Kamienski is becoming a great-grandmother. Gwen Johnson Redding has a new great-grandson, Jacob Kien

McDowell, born in June to granddaughter Chelsea and husband Aaron. The Redding Family now totals 20! Elaine “Laine” Butler Ryan keeps busy in New Hampshire’s White Mountains, playing the traditional Irish drum (bodhran) on Sunday afternoons at May Kelly’s Irish Pub and Restaurant in North Conway; otherwise, she’s traveling. Laine would love to hear from classmates at elainemryan@roadrunner.com.

Nancy Damon Adcock has retired after more than 25 years in banking. She has three grandchildren, two in California and one in Connecticut. Nancy has given up riding due to a bout with cancer but is doing well and enjoying her new puppy, Louie.

Joan Seibert Agnacion and husband are retired and living in Sarasota, FL, where they enjoy golf, exercise, reading, travel and Bridge. Daryl Anne Schmid Anderson and husband have retired to Narragansett, RI.

She owned Ram Point Marina, and her husband was a charter boat captain. They have five grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Daryl is president of the South County Museum of History in Narragansett and also spends time gardening. Her daughter Janet lives in Cambridge, MA and daughter Susanne lives in Westerly, RI.

Nancy Sparrows Billings and husband moved to Greenville, SC in 2012, “quite a change after 49 years in California,” she tells Leaves, “though a charming and beautiful place to live.” The couple enjoys being close to their two grandchildren.

Linda Horowitz Cohen retired to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico in 2005, where she enjoys a relaxing beach life with friends old and new. She spent the Summer in Dallas, where her son and grandchildren live. Marjorie Freedman Feldman lives in Ontario, Canada and is a co-owner, with husband Michael, of an agency that represents office and healthcare furniture manufacturers. They have two sons and two grandsons.

Marjorie spends part of the Winter in Boynton Beach, FL. She enjoys art and golf and keeps in touch with Brenda Altman Berman. Ellen Kaplan Gittleman and her husband celebrated their 48th wedding anniversary this past Spring. They live in Scottsdale, AZ seven months a year and spend the other months in Rhode Island. They have four grandchildren. A lifelong horse lover, Ellen has a chestnut thoroughbred mare now in training for dressage. She continues to ski in Vail and Breckenridge each Winter and has embraced yoga “as a lifelong discipline for strength, balance and flexibility.” She would love to hear from her Draper House classmates. Margot Harcher is remembered warmly by many of her Woodland classmates. A registered nurse, she loved travel, skiing and hiking. Classmate Karin Skooglund tells Leaves, “Margot was diagnosed with Multiple Sclerosis in her early 30s and lived bravely and with grace and humor until her recent death.” Kathleen Horgan Hoffman lives in Rockport, TX and is married with four step-children, seven step-grandchildren and four step-great-grand kids. Gail Grange Johnson and husband retired to Wolfeboro, NH 13 years ago. Their three sons live within two hours of them, so they see family often. They attended their oldest granddaughter’s high school graduation in Michigan in May.

Their other three grandchildren (ages four, six and eight) live in Newburyport, MA. As Class Secretary, Gail enjoys catching up with her 1963 classmates for Leaves updates.

Bette Unger Kiernan is a California-licensed marriage, family and child therapist. She maintains a private practice in Palo Alto, consults regularly for Silicon Valley corporations and specializes in crisis intervention. She also is a journalist for Splash Magazines Worldwide. Visit her at Betteconsulting.com. Nancy Bunn Oakes has three grandchildren. Jeanne Chase Peckham still lives in Sharon, MA but spends part of the year in Delray Beach, FL. She is enjoying her 45th Summer at Camp Manitou in Belgrade Lakes, Maine, where she directs the water ski program and her husband is athletic director. Jeanne earned national rating to judge gymnastics at the collegiate and USA Regional Meet levels. Karin Skooglund is officially Skooglund again, at 70 no less, so now her surname matches “Skoogie,” her old Lasell nickname that her grandchildren have adopted. She loves being with twins Charlotte and Julia (six) and Raylan (two), her kids, their spouses and her new Sonoma, CA friends. She sees Susan Albano Cowan twice a year, in California and Massachusetts. Lasell Overseer Margot “Margo” Hicks Waite and husband Rob recently sailed French Polynesia on a 44-foot catamaran. Margo, who retired from a career in magazine publishing 10 years ago, reports “there is a nice group of Lasell alums in the Newport area,” where she and Rob now live. The Waites hosted a small alumni gathering at their second home in Longboat Key, FL earlier this year. Carolyn Goudsmit Welshans is going back to school and enjoys writing in her spare time.

Deborah Keith Samson wished she could have made it to her 50th Reunion in June. She and husband George love the gated golf community in Bonita Springs, FL, where they spend six months a year.

Martha Borawski has no retirement plans, as travel is her “passion.” She has owned Pioneer Valley Travel in Northampton, MA for the last 45 years, previously rated as one of the “Top 100 MA Woman-Owned Businesses.” She travels extensively and recently cruised the Panama Canal. Martha has been married for 16 years to William Brandt, the retired head of Operations and Facilities at Smith College. They have a blended family of three sons, a daughter and six grandchildren. She is in regular contact with Barbara Taylor and Nancy Bergen and would love to hear from fellow Lasell alums. Barbara Katz is enjoying the single life while working from her Charlestown, MA condominium. As a travel specialist for Italy at American Express Travel, she has made numerous trips to Europe and recently was selected for an AmEx global award trip to Istanbul (given to the top 3% of the company's agents worldwide). Dr. Patti Levin continues as a Boston psychologist in a private practice. She has been married to cancer researcher Julian Adams for six years and has two sons, Jamie (36) and Nick (31), and an infant grandson. She recently celebrated her 67th birthday with family on the Cape.

Deborah Feldman Bloomberg has had a variety of nursing jobs since graduating from Lasell's Nursing program and currently is director of Nursing and Wellness at The Chestnut Hill School, where she was school nurse for 18 years. She has two children, Lindsey, who has a BA in Counseling from Lesley University and is starting a graduate degree program in education at The Bank Street School in NYC, and Matthew, who has an AS from Landmark College and is currently pursuing a BSW at Castleton (VT) State College. Deborah sends a special hello to nurses Gina McKenna Kneski, Debra "Deb" Dragon Marino and Eleanor "Ellie" Kapala. Karin Albert Copeland was a Retail major at Lasell and went on to get a BS in Marketing from Central CT State University. While at Lasell, she lived in Wolf Hall and Carpenter House. Karin worked in retail, marketing and sales management before becoming director of Continuous Learning and Leadership Development at the Beekley Corporation (a Connecticut medical manufacturing, sales and marketing organization). She is married with two children, lives in Burlington, CT and vacations in the Lake George, NY area every Summer. Lasell Trustee Susan Rinklin Dunne and family enjoyed a Summer trip to Turkey. Kimberly "Kim" Rowe Galli is back home in Point Pleasant Boro on the New Jersey Shore. She and Wentworth University alum Ron Galli (whom she met while at Lasell) recently celebrated their 27th anniversary and have two daughters, Missy, a University of Delaware grad who lives in NYC, and Kenzie, a University of New Hampshire freshman. Kim works for a local advertising/marketing agency. Diane Raymond Grillone graduated from Lasell with a Nursing degree and stayed in the Boston area, for many years working in critical care units and for the past nine years in post-anesthesia care at Tufts Medical Center. Her son works in the computer field, and her daughter is a pre-vet major (biology) at Simmons College. Diane and her physician husband of 25 years (whom she met while both worked at Newton-Wellesley Hospital) have frequently traveled to Europe, currently live on the South Shore and hope to move closer to Boston. She keeps busy with work, gardening and caring for her three dogs. S. "Natasha" Kent lives in the Rocky Mountain town of Manitou Springs, CO with her husband, a computer programmer. She operates a language school and teaches Spanish and English to students from Venezuela and other countries, providing a homestay option while they learn. After Lasell, Natasha received a BA in Literature from Boston University, a BS in Metallurgical

REUNION ROCKS!

Reunion 2014, celebrating Lasell classes ending in 4's and 9's, brought alums back to campus for a Welcome Breakfast, Parade of Classes, update on "Lasell Today" from President Michael B. Alexander, Luncheon, Campus Trolley Tours, Walking House Tours, Ice Cream Social, Lobster Bake and general schmoozing and reconnecting. For GOLD alums (Graduates Of the Last Decade), there also was an Alumni Tailgate Party, Pub Night and Midnight Breakfast. Cones, crustaceans and camaraderie. Such a deal!

Solid GOLD

Question: What has 16 members, runs five annual events, participates in two annual service projects—and enjoys full participation in The Lasell Fund?

Answer: The Lasell College GOLD (Graduates Of the Last Decade) Council, established in 2010 to keep young alumni connected, engaged and involved with Lasell during their first 10 years after graduation.

The GOLD Council also represents Lasell graduate degree holders ages 22 to 35. And, along with the Alumni Association, works in conjunction with the Office of Alumni Relations to sponsor programs and events that promote interaction with other alumni and the broader Lasell College community. "The goal of the Council," President Heather Oblon '10 (above) tells Leaves, "is to continue to foster a connection between graduates, their classmates and the College."

To learn more or to join the GOLD Council, contact Kelsey Barrows, assistant director of Alumni Relations and Annual Giving, at kbarrows@lasell.edu or 617-243-2467.

Brittany Jackson Fevrier made a career change and became a registered nurse, currently working in dialysis. The Fevriers (Lawens Fevrier '02) have added a new addition to their family, puppy Penny.

Gentleman and Scholar Kenneth Matheson Dies

Kenneth C. Matheson, beloved Lasell professor emeritus and an iconic figure on campus for decades, died on July 19, 2014. A graduate of Somerville High School, Matheson majored in English literature at Boston University's College of Liberal Arts, finishing with an MA in History and Shakespeare Studies and Theatre History. He went on to live a life of diverse and spirited interests.

Known as a gentleman, scholar and collector, Matheson had a dry wit and sense of humor. He wore an eclectic range of hats: Baseball historian, pre-1940s sheet music expert, Boogie Woogie piano aficionado, film critic, ballroom dancer, poet. "He loved challenging intellectual knowledge and rational discourse," read his obituary. "His students and family profited from his deep humility, compassion and common sense approach to life as a humanist."

Matheson, who lived in Newton for 54 years, taught English at Lasell for 40 years and received The Lasell Medallion in 2000 after retiring in 1999.

He leaves his wife of 58 years, Barbara (Burns), daughter Bonnie Matheson Holmes and her life partner John Greco, son Mark B. Matheson and his wife Michelle (Vella), seven grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

As this issue of Leaves went to press, the Lasell family learned of the death of one of the most generous and devoted supporters of the College, Overseer Susan Slocum Klingbeil '45, a former Trustee, Medallion recipient and longtime Heritage Society member. The Spring 2015 issue of Leaves will include a full obituary.

Ruth Turner Crosby '42/H'92: Trustee Emerita

Ruth E. Turner Crosby '42/H'92, a loyal and generous benefactor of Lasell and member of the College's Heritage Society, died on September 24, 2014 at the age of 91. Named a Trustee in 1979, Crosby served as chair of the Board in 1989 and remained a Trustee emerita until her death.

Crosby was president of the Lasell Alumni, Inc. Board of Management from 1955-57 and chair of her 50th class reunion in 1992, at which time she received an honorary degree for her leadership role during the College's application process for degree elevation. She was awarded the Lasell Medallion for her longtime commitment to her alma mater in 1976 and the Lasell Bowl in 1996.

"Ruth had a passion for Lasell and was a real presence," Vice President for Enrollment Management Kathleen M. O'Connor, who worked closely with Crosby, tells Leaves. "As Board chair during the time Lasell became a four-year school, she cared very deeply about ensuring the future of the College."

As a founding member of the Heritage Society, Crosby established a Lasell Gift Annuity in 1991 to help champion future generations of Lasell students.

Known as a tenacious and creative "volunteer extraordinaire," with a quick wit, Crosby's generosity of spirit extended to community service and volunteer work at Newton's Jackson Homestead, Newton-Wellesley Hospital and the Newton Garden Club. "Ruth was also a voice for beautification on campus," Vice President O'Connor adds.

A native of Auburndale, where her father was a pharmacist, Crosby was a day student (aka, day-hop) who liked to say she "lived at Chandler." In 1993, at the end of her tenure as Board chair, then-current day-hops named the newly created campus commuter lounge "Crosby's" to recognize her service to Lasell.

The wife of the late Richard A. Crosby, with whom she lived most of her adult life in Newton, she is survived by two daughters, Janet Stewart of Littleton and Barbara Kitchener of Plymouth, two grandchildren and two great-grandsons.

A celebration of Crosby's life is set for her birthday, Saturday, April 25, 2015, at St. John's Episcopal Church, 297 Lowell Avenue, Newtonville.

Three New Trustees Join Board

The Board of Trustees' primary functions are educational policy making and overall governance responsibility for the legal, managerial and financial stewardship of the College. Members further determine the general administrative policies of the College and are empowered to carry out any other duties, functions and responsibilities permitted. New Trustees this year are:

John J. Concannon III of Hingham, MA,
a partner in the corporate area of the Boston office of Bingham McCutchen

LLP, who concentrates in general corporate and securities law, mergers and acquisitions, venture capital, sports franchise and licensing. Concannon holds a BA from Boston College and a JD from Suffolk University Law School. He is vice chairman of the board of governors of the Boston College Club, the board of trustees of Harvard Vanguard Medical Associates and is a board member of the Capuchin Franciscan Friars/NY-New England Region.

Karen A. McCafferty
of Norwood, MA,
a senior vice president and head of marketing at John Hancock Financial

Services in Boston, holds a BA in Communications from Boston College and a MBA from the MIT Sloan School of Management Fellows Program in Innovation and Global Leadership. She is a senior executive with some 20 years' experience in marketing, communications and public relations and an established record of strategic planning, brand and reputation management and fostering strong alliances and relationships.

Peter M. Schulte
of New York, NY,
a managing partner
and founder of CM
Equity Partners, whose professional experience

includes private equity investing through CMEP (1992), corporate public and private debt and equity financings and mergers and acquisitions at Salomon Brothers beginning in 1983. Schulte has established successful publicly traded companies and is a director of ICF International. He holds an AB from Harvard College, an MPPM from Yale University and serves on the boards of the Yale Center for Business and the Environment, the Rainforest Alliance and the New York League of Conservation Voters.

Four New Overseers Named

The Board of Overseers supports Lasell College, its Board of Trustees and Senior Management Team in the advancement of the educational mission with advice, expertise and resources. Members are leaders in their communities, professions or organizations and/or have served with distinction on behalf of Lasell in a leadership capacity. As ambassadors of the College, the Overseers provide a link to the broader community. New Overseers this year are:

Michele Poirier
Gorman '60
of West
Hartford, CT,
an educational consultant with an extensive background in college counseling and placement. Gorman holds a BA from the University of Hartford and advanced degrees and certification from the University of Grenoble, the University of Hartford, the Gesell Institute at Yale University and the Jung Institute.

Steven Palmer
of Melrose, MA, chief of staff to the vice president of

Business Development and Strategy, Integrated Defense Systems at Raytheon. A former US Army officer and international diplomat, Palmer worked extensively in Europe, the Middle East and Russia. He holds a BS in Criminal Justice from Northeastern University and a MBA from the MIT Sloan School of Management.

Mitchell Phillips
'04/MSM '06 of
Swampscott,
MA, who holds a
BA in Management

Information Systems and a MSM in Management from Lasell College, is director of sales at Strafford Technology. With his wife Danielle Grethel Phillips '06 (see page 51), Phillips owns two small businesses: Making The Day and HubFashion.

Daniel Shimkus
Jr. of Worcester,
MA, TD Bank's
senior vice president and regional executive for Not-for-Profit Education and Government Lending in Southern New England. Shimkus has an extensive background in volunteer leadership in the Worcester area and holds a BA in Business from Saint Anselm College and a MBA from Assumption College.

The Edward Lasell Leadership Circle

Lasell Fund donors at leadership levels of $1,000 or more honor Edward Lasell's legacy of providing a progressive and professionally focused education to motivated young people. We are profoundly thankful to the members of The Edward Lasell Leadership Circle for their deep commitment and generous investment in Lasell College. Members of the Leadership Circle share a link with early investors in Lasell, continuing a strong tradition of philanthropy and connecting our distinguished past to our remarkable present, making essential funds available for student aid, academic programs, library resources and athletics. This leadership and philanthropy makes a significant difference in the education, and lives, of Lasell's students. We are deeply grateful.

The Heritage Society

As alumni and friends learn about the benefits of planned giving at Lasell College, many are choosing to provide special support for Lasell's future by establishing a life income gift or bequest. The Heritage Society honors these individuals who, as of June 30, 2014, have championed the next generation of Lasell students.

Remembering with Gratitude

A large portion of our endowment growth has come through the generosity of these honored alumni and friends who made provision for Lasell in their estate plans and through life income gifts, which have now been received by the College. We are forever grateful to these cherished individuals whose legacies live on through our current and future students.

‘Our Alma Mater Remains a Huge Part of Who We Are’

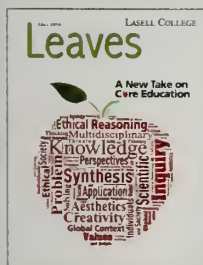

“When we think back to our time as Lasell students, we remember the amazing opportunities we had, the people we met and the skills we developed. Now, as alumni, our alma mater remains a huge part of who we are. Giving back to a college that gave us so much, and prepared us for the future, is a great way to say ‘thank you’.”

— Mitch '04/MSM'06
and Danielle Phillips '06

Join Lasell Overseer Mitch Phillips and his wife Danielle and make an impact by supporting The Lasell Fund. Your gift helps create lifelong learners by providing the resources necessary for today's students to grow and succeed. Every gift makes a difference. Give now at www.lasellalumni.org/lasellfund2015.
